

All Seals' Oil Field Compounds

All Seals has been in the oil field business for decades. We know that each oil field market has its own unique requirements. That's why we offer a variety of seals with compounds specifically engineered to provide resistance to both rapid gas decompression and sour gas.

You can choose from an extensive variety of O-Rings, or we'll mold your order into any type of custom shape – to the most exacting specifications. If your particular situation calls for a custom compound, All Seals' engineers will create the perfect mix. We also thoroughly test our seals for the most rigorous conditions. Try us and you'll agree – we're the best in our field.
